2 Farm-Minded Men Exchange Smiles

convention. A pleasant feature of his visit to Washington was his greeting by his county's congressman, Brown, a farmer himself, accepted the picture with a pleasure his smile makes positive.

Greene County In Second Place In Bond Drive

Judge Frank L. Johnson, Xenia, county savings bonds chairman, announces that the county has attained 99.6 per cent of its Independence Bond drive quota as of July 1. The formal accounting period ends July 17 with all reports received by the Federal Reserve on or before next Monday being included in final totals.

County sales of 132,497 up to July 1 give it a ranking of second in the state. Earlier this week it was announced that Athens county was the first in the state to exceed its quota and that the state had attained 67.6 per cent of its quota of $38,339,000.

Greene Is Now Part of Health Service District

Greene county, as part of the Southwest district which includes 14 other neighboring counties, is to have an amplified health service.

The central office is located in Dayton.

The step is made to bring the health department closer to the people of the state.

Members of the district office will not provide direct public health service. These are the functions of the local health department. They will, however, provide assistance to the local health authority who is responsible for providing public health services.

It was designed to make such services as nursing and engineering, consultation, and laboratory services more readily available to the local health departments as well as to provide a headquarters for the Ohio Department of Health personnel assigned to the district.

Our basic objectives are to establish minimum standards of service and operation for local health units, and to provide all possible assistance to the units in meeting these standards.

The ultimate staff will include a medical officer, engineering and sanitation consultants, public health nursing consultants, health education consultants, a records and administrative consultant, and such others as might be needed.

Evangelist Is To Hold Services In Cedarville

Rev. Paul H. Hesler, pastor of the Cedarville Church of the Nazarenes, announces a series of evangelistic meetings in the local church from July 16 through July 23.

Returning to Cedarville to conduct the services is Evangelist Mary E. Latham, who has earned a national reputation for successful work as an evangelist and author of church and Sunday school books and tracts.

Besides having charge of the revival services at the local church the favorite evangelist will conduct a vacation Bible school workshop for teachers.

Mary E. Latham, evangelist and lecturer, is director of vacation Bible schools and weekday religious education for the church of the Nazarenes with international headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

Ordained to the ministry in 1937, after teaching in the public schools for some four years, she has devoted most of her time to the work of evangelism. A forceful speaker, she captures the interest of her audience by a unique approach to her subject. She frequently highlights her sermons with original chalk illustrations and always illustrates her talks to Sunday school workers.

When not engaged in active work in the field of revivals, workers' conferences, etc., she spends her time in editorial and promotional work in the department of church-schools in Kansas City. In addition to serving in these fields, Miss Latham has established a churchwide reputation as a writer for various Sunday school periodicals. She writes "For Your Opening Service," a regular monthly feature of the Bible School Journal, and prepares Explore the Bible, workbook for teenage youth to be used as class activity with Youth's Quarterly. She is the author of Journeys with Jesus, Intermediate Teacher's Manual and Pupil's Book for Vacation Bible Schools.

Miss Latham is a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., where she received the A. B. degree in education. She has done some graduate study at the University of Cincinnati.

Library Fills Great Need In Community

OUR LIBRARY
Its Value and Needs

The greatest curse of the race is ignorance. Libraries are to civilization what beacon lights are to aviators, guide posts for safe flight and safe landing, with this difference—the beacons lead to a mundane landing, the libraries to one in the spiritual realm.

How shall one reach a proper evaluation of the worth of a library in a community? A professor of education told his class of an argument with a wealthy land owner uncle. It happened that at a county cross road where the uncle owned all four corners, there stood a country school on one corner and a church on the other. The uncle maintained they were not worth their cost to the community. After much argument the young professor posed this question: Uncle, if I were able to reach down, pick up this school and church and remove them, with all they signify to the community, would you want me to do it? The uncle thought a moment and then replied with an oath, No, I wouldn't when one stops to think he realizes the force of that Scripture that says, Man shall not live by bread alone.

Illustrative of the high place of a library for best living in a community, is the experience of the 90 families of Lonepine, Montana. These folk formed the first study group gotten together under the "Montana Study" plan, fathered by Chancellor Ernest O. Melby, or Montana University, to revitalize small towns. The enthusiasm was so great that the study group ended. One immediate fruit of the effort was the establishment of a community library.

Every one should read "Remember Our Friend Walter" by Paul Schubert in the July Reader's Digest. It keeps one realizing we have not four but 400 freedoms in America—and included is the privilege of access to the lore of the ages. John Milton in his defense of freedom of the press says, "... a good book is the precious life-blood of a master spirit, embalmed and treasured up on purpose to a life beyond life." These good books are to be found in our library.

Holy Writ says, where there is no vision the people perish. Who can estimate the value of a library to a community as a means of ridding it of the ignorance that kills?

Other articles concerning the library will be published at a later date.

Studio to Take Pictures Here On Tuesday

On Tuesday, July 18, Gold Tone nationally known photographers with studios in Dayton will conduct its search for the "Cutest Kiddie" in Cedarville. All children from the age of 6 months to 10 years who are photographed on those dates will be eligible to enter the contest. There will be no charge for the sittings and each entrant will be given a complimentary 8x10 Platinum Tone photograph without any obligation whatsoever. No limitation on appointment is needed.

Judging will be done by a competent board of judges. In addition to a beautiful engraved loving cup, the first place winner will be presented with a 16x20 hand colored salon photograph in a beautiful pine frame and the second place winner will receive an oil colored 11x14 salon photograph of equal quality.

Remember the photographers are looking for the "Cutest" local children. The child's expression at the moment the picture is snapped may determine whether it is a prize winner! Even a pouting child can be "cute." Because a child's mood can change quickly anything can happen before the camera. That's why it's fair and fun.

The studio will be set up in Opera House on Thursday, July 13, Village Clerk's office Cedarville 18 from the hours of 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. So plan to arrive there early to avoid the rush.

Wheat Loan To Be $2.13 Bushel In Greene County

Greene county's 1950 wheat will have a government loan value of $2.13 per bushel.

This was announced at the end of last week by J. B. Mason, county PMA chairman.

This is a 4 cents above the 1949 rate of $2.09 per bushel.

The basic loan rate applies to wheat grading U. S. No. 1. Mr. Mason pointed out, Wheat produced on farms cooperating in the 1950 wheat acreage allotment program grading No. 3 or better, or No. 4 or 5 because of test weight or because it contains wheat of the durum or red durum classes will be eligible for a Commodity Credit corporation loan or purchase agreement. A schedule of premiums and discounts or various qualities of the 1950 crop will be issued soon and will be available for inspection at the county PMA office at 208 E. Main street, Xenia.

To be eligible for a loan, according to the county chairman, wheat must be placed in approved storage, either on the farm or in a commercial warehouse or elevator. Storage allowances will be continued for the 1950 crop on the same basis as in 1949, Mr. Mason said.

The county rate is based on a national average of $1.99 a bushel predicted on No. 2 wheat, to farmers as announced by PMA recently. The equivalent national average rate for U. S. No. 1 wheat is $2 a bushel.

The 1949 agricultural act requires the price of 1950 wheat be supported to farmers at 90 per cent of the parity price as of July 1, the beginning of the marketing season. Mr. Mason reports the July 1 parity price was $2.21 a bushel. For the same date last year this price was $2.17.

Students and College Both Gain Thru Farm

Roy Jacobs, Cedarville college farm manager declared the farm has been highly successful in giving aid to students seeking to earn their way through school.

Mr. Jacobs reported a number of boys are kept busy most of the time with peak demands coming during the spring, summer and fall. Approximately 2500 man hours of work are supplied to college men needing aid.

The farm in addition to supplying students with opportunity for work also supplies all of the meat needed at the college boarding club, and a large part of the fresh vegetables used in the summer and early fall besides selling surplus produce of meat and grain on the market.

According to Mr. Jacobs the raising of live stock as the major interest of the farm has proved more practical for the Cedarville college farm as it permits a more flexible work program for students than would be possible if grain were the major crop.

How to make sure

Your Farm gets

ADEQUATE WIRING

Farm Wiring experts will advise you without cost or obligation

Center meter pole installation on Don T. Warner's Warner-Grove farm, R. 2, 1, Greenville.

Monroe Pyles, farm manager, examines the 200 ampere service.

To get the most value from electric service every farm needs Adequate Wiring. Adequate Wiring means enough outlets, big enough wire sizes and a wiring layout and installation that assures efficiency, economy, safety and convenience.

Here is the key: As illustrated, the power line is brought in from the road to a center meter pole which serves as a distribution point for wires carrying electric current to all the buildings being served.

The methods, materials and size of wire installed in these feeder lines to the various buildings determine the efficiency of the farm wiring.

Plan for the future, too. It's a fine idea to plan wiring to carry a future load double that now needed. Electrical distribution panels with spare terminals allow for future additions to your equipment without overloading present circuits.

Take advantage of this free help: To make sure the wiring plan you work out with your contractor permits all additional load and future extensions likely to be needed, talk over your electrical power needs with your County Agent, Vocational Agriculture teacher and the Farm Representative of your electric service company. The combined experience of these authorities will help you enjoy the maximum comforts and conveniences of electrical living on your farm.

Clarence Bunnell proved to LA police that he had "intuitive knowledge" about the speed he was driving. With the speedometer covered he told accompanying officers to a fraction of a mile the mph he was doing. A charge of speeding was dismissed. . . James Eadie, English church record player, got fired for playing the record, "Put Another Nickel In," because the collection had been below par.

DEWEY'S JOB

In these days of shrunken distances, New York is a next-door neighbor. In fact, in political interest what goes on in that state has always claimed our attention. Governor Dewey is dropping out. Lt. Gov. Joe Hanic is the GOP favorite to succeed him. But FDR, the two-termer, with a family claim on the position, may be a candidate. If he is, count on Jim Farley whom the late FDR "never considered his social equal," in the words of Mrs. FDR—Jim Farley will be back in the fray, but effectively. He may even run for the job himself. Interesting? Quite!

CORRUPTION

A Georgia woman reported to authorities that she voted all day and was paid only $1. "Other people were paid $2 every time they voted—and I got only $1 for voting all day!" The authorities agree that her complaint is valid—she ought to have been paid more! There was an old-time story about a voter who was paid $1 to vote for the GOP candidate, and $2 to vote for the Democratic candidate. He voted for the GOP man, explaining that the "Democrats are corrupter than the Republicans!"

HOARDING

Already, at the first hint of war, folks are rushing to buy tires and sugar and everything else they can remember was scarce during the last war. One woman explained that she only wanted to get plenty "before the hoarders got it!"

KARGER, II

There are readers of this paper who remember Gus Karger, Cincinnati writer, whose sage political writings were gospel to his generation. He has a son, Gus Karger, Jr. who is in politics. He threatens to run against incumbent congressman Charles Elston from Hamilton county. The name Gus Karger has never lost its appeal.

LATTIMORE

"Be sure your sins will find you out," the adage says. Alger Hiss, standing behind the influential wheel chair at Yalta, and writing the phrases of the program for Russia; Owen Lattimore, maneuvering recognition of Communist China, and consenting and arguing for the division of Korea—their sins are finding them out.

PAPER SHORTAGE

A Sunday newspaper recently contained 120 pages. Most of the reading matter in it could have been boiled down to eight or 10 pages. The newspaper shortage is easily explained.

WEATHERMAN

Portsmouth has a new weatherman. The old one wasn't fired. He took another job. Funny, how weathermen get by. Let a coach, for example, guess wrong on a couple of games and there's a new coach. But the weatherman can predict "fair and warmer," and if there's a blizzard by the time the paper is out, folks just shrug their shoulders. They can't guess the weather any better than he can.

WHO VOTES FOR WHOM

Governor Lausche started a buzz of comment from every section of the populace from the CIO to the ministerial association, by saying he might vote for Taft. Now, along comes a prognosticator who reasons that Taft will vote for Lausche on a turn-about-is-fair-play system. But why? One thing wrong with voting has always been too much exchange in it—you vote for me and I'll vote for you.

CLARENCE J. BROWN Writes

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
SCRIPTURE: The Book of Ruth
Lesson for July 16, 1950

THE ENGLISH language has a word not found in the original language of the Bible; it is not in Latin, German or French for that matter. It is the word "home." But homes were not invented in England or America; the ancient peoples of the world had homes even if they had no special word for them. The story of Ruth is a home-story, a family tale. It comes from the times of the Judges, which were very rugged times indeed.

To read the Book of Judges you would think that everything was plots and wars and murder. There isn't a peaceful story in the book. And then comes the story of Ruth, to remind us that even in those terrible times there were happy people, people who minded their business and worked hard and stayed home and loved one another.

The bright spots in today's vast seas of misery are just what they were in Ruth's time. "A home is a place to go when everything else has shut up" is not a true proverb. For if that is all it is, it is not a home. It is only a boarding house and not a very attractive one at that. To this day, there are fewer divorces in the country than in the cities, and one big reason for that is that country families have to work together, while city families often have little in common. In the country everybody turns to and does something about the house, everybody helps everybody else; while in the cities where so much is done by machines and houses are very small, there isn't much a family can do together.

ACTING LIKE MOTHER

A birdist, Dr. O. Bobart Mowrer of the University of Illinois says that a bird can be taught to talk if the lady that cares for it will act like its mother. But in cases of the Aunt Eppie like bird lovers who would have trouble bathing in a thimble-sized dish and telling the birdie to "do like mama does!"

VALUABLE PAGE

A feature page of a Sunday newspaper had these helpful articles: That the old-fashioned scarecrow is the best (three columns to prove it); that the Bible is the best book; that a girl got to be a movie star by persistence; that a mother bear in a zoo won't let even the keeper come near her cub; that the only way to fight weeds is to keep after them. A very helpful, informative page.

RASS

A fisherman off Rhode Island caught a 52-pound bass. While a fish like that makes a good picture with the fish and the fisherman, reading left to right, yet there's the outlay for a skillet to fry it in, remember. Seems like 13 four-pound bass would be more desirable, except for telling-about-it purposes.

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

The Big Idea of Faith and Peace

UP IN PAWLING, N. Y., there is published a very small magazine with a very big idea. A lot of people believe in this big idea, but few do anything about it. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, editor-in-chief of this little magazine, called Guideposts, is doing something about it every day of his life. The idea? Peace.

What Dr. Peale urges all of us to do cannot but further the idea, for all he asks us to do is within our power: to have faith. "Faith," we read from The Book, "is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

If you haven't looked up the definition of "substance," here it is: substance means "the substantial part, the main part," of anything. So substance is the main part when we hope.

We live by faith. If we didn't have faith, we would accomplish nothing, have nothing, be less than nothing. So let's cooperate with this man who is spending his life in helping all of us. Let's follow some suggestions he sets forth, and in which he has great faith. Here are those suggestions. It will help you every day of your life to follow them to repeat to yourself every morning as you start the day:

- 1—I will seek a change within myself that I may have inner peace.
- 2—I will seek to effect, with God's help, a similar change in my family, my social group, my community.
- 3—I will seek to make my faith infectious that I may attract other people to God by what I am.
- 4—At every opportunity, I will pray for peace, speak for peace, act for peace, and think for peace.
- 5—I will try to win at least two others to a similar dedication and charge them each to do likewise.

Dr. Peale says that if this process is repeated only 31 times, the entire population of the world can be reached. And it can start with you.

If you would like to have a copy, or several copies, of an article on peace that appeared in Guideposts, write for it to Guideposts, Pawling, N. Y. You don't have to send any money to get it, but every penny counts in printing more and more copies.

ON EARS THAT HEAR NOT

The finance committee of the senate has decided to continue its hearings on the house-approved tax bill and to bring the measure to a vote in the senate on July 20 unless world conditions grow worse. Senate leaders point out that, while the bill reduces excise taxes by approximately $1 billion, it increases other taxes, including some on corporations, by an approximately equal amount, so actually no loss of revenue would result from passage of the measure. If the bill becomes law, John Q. Public will simply pay certain taxes out of one pocket and start paying increased corporation and other taxes out of another pocket. Finance committee members point out that, if the United States becomes involved in another world war, there will be no tax cuts of any kind, but, instead, all taxes will be heavily increased.

The federal deficit for the fiscal year, which ended June 30, was $3,122,102,367.45, according to an official report from the treasury. This made the actual government deficit approximately 40 percent or $2,000,000,000 less than anticipated and predicted by administration spokesmen as late as last April 20. Approximately $1 billion less was spent on national defense than authorized; only $44 million of the $160 million set aside for the foreign arms aid program were actually paid out; but $40 million of the $70 million voted as economic aid to Korea was spent, while expenditures by the atomic energy commission and Reconstruction Finance corporation were hundreds of millions below those authorized and anticipated for the year. While revenue from corporation income taxes was lower, receipts from withholding taxes on individual incomes were much higher than expected. The treasury report shows the federal government has operated in the red 18 years out of the last 20, and lived within its income only during the 2 years when the Republican 80th congress sat in the capitol and controlled the purse-strings of the nation. Under the government not only spent less than it took in, but a surplus of more than $3 billion was created, heavy payments were made on the national debt, individual income taxes were reduced $5.5 billion annually, and more than 7 million low-income Americans were taken entirely off the federal tax rolls. During the last fiscal year, the government took in a little over $34 billion and spent over $40 billion. The national debt stood at $257,376,855,385.01 at midnight June 30.

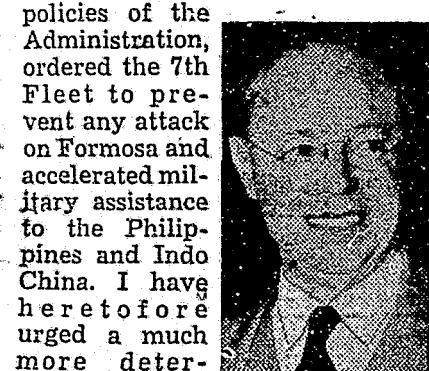

Washington was host last week-end to several thousand Boy Scouts, who had attended the recent jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa., where they were addressed by President Truman, Gen. Eisenhower, and other dignitaries. Visiting the capitol were several Scout troops from the 7th congressional district, including 27 Scouts from our home county of Clinton. They were a tired, but happy group.

All sorts of rumors are being circulated that the government will impose rationing and other controls soon. However, no such action can be taken until the congress first enacts legislation giving authority therefor. However, many World War II social and economic planners are busy propagandizing in favor of instituting a government controlled economy in the near future. Proposed laws have already been prepared to be presented to congress providing for rigid controls on all production, prices, wages, and manpower, and the allocation of all materials and

WASHINGTON REPORT

BY SENATOR ROBERT A. TAFT

THE attack of the North Koreans on the Republic of Korea is an outrageous act of aggression against a friendly independent nation which has been established on the initiative of the United States and recognized by the United Nations. The attack in all probability was instigated by Soviet Russia. We have an other instance of Communists picking out a soft spot where they felt that they could expand their power without risking war. In the face of this attack, the President has reversed the previous

It should be pointed out, however, that the Korean attack is the direct result of the weak policy adopted by the Administration in the Far East, particularly in China, Formosa and Korea.

As a result we not only invited attack, but now the President has to choose an unfortunate time and undertake a very difficult military operation in the defense of Southern Korea.

First, the division of Korea along the 38th parallel, giving the Russians the northern half of the country with most of its industry, was part of the Yalta-Potsdam synthetic acceptance of Communism as a peace-loving philosophy, the great fundamental error which has made Russia today a threat to the existence of the world.

Second, the entire Chinese policy gave basic encouragement to North Korean aggression. In general, Secretary Acheson made it very clear that our defense line was Japan, Okinawa and the Philippines, leaving out Formosa and Korea. If we refused to give military assistance to Nationalist China against Chinese Communists, why should the Koreans, Communists think that we would use our troops to defend Nationalist Korea against Korean Communists? Why should they assume that the President would reverse the Secretary of State's clearly stated policy that we could not assure the Far East against attack beyond the line he indicated?

Third, we withdrew our troops from Korea and did not give any substantial arms to the Koreans. Although the President last year obtained the money to arm the Koreans against northern aggression, he changed that policy and only undertook to arm them to prevent border raids and sabotage, according to his own statement. Of the millions available, only $200 was spent even for this purpose. Certainly this fact of our failure to arm South Korea was one which invited the attack which has been made.

FINALLY, the Administration attitude toward Formosa, so clearly stated in January of this year, naturally would lead one to think that we would not undertake military action in Korea. Acheson and Connally both took the position that Formosa had no military value. Certainly its military value is greater than that of Korea. They indicated that we would not defend Formosa because it might involve us in war with Russia. The defense of Korea is far more likely to involve us in war with Russia than the defense of Formosa ever was.

Secretary Acheson indicated in January that we might recognize the Chinese Communist government, if the Administration was contemplating recognition of Communist China after they had seized China, why couldn't the Koreans, Communists hope for recognition after they had seized Korea?

In short, if a strong policy had heretofore been adopted in the Far East, the North Koreans never would have attacked. I welcome the present reversal of policy, but we should realize that it is a complete reversal of Secretary Acheson's entire previous policy which has so precipitated the danger of war. Whether the President chose the right-time for his policy, or the right-place, can be discussed in the future. At present we must back with unstinted support our armed forces where they have been sent by the President.

Successful Parenthood

BY
MRS. CATHERINE CONRAD EDWARDS
Associate Editor, Parents' Magazine

VARIETY is not only the spice of life but a mental safeguard against the threats of television, radio, comics, movies and other childhood enthusiasms that are often decried as harmful. The harm invariably results from obsession with one form of amusement—being stuffed with a single type of mental intake is certainly not good for the developing mind. Yet would you want a child to grow up without access to the forms of entertainment and communication with which his play-mates are familiar?

It seems to me that parents have a grander opportunity than ever before to plan a stimulating and culturally significant life for their children by skimming the best of the many delights available to today's children. Of course it takes thought and time—you have to study what each of these media has to offer. You have to share them with the children up to a point—that is, until you know how your children react to various types of programs.

After all, there are only 14 waking hours in the day for children under 10 years of age if they get the 10 hours sleep they need. And it is up to parents to see that this basic need is supplied. There is no excuse for allowing radio or television to keep children up way past their bedtime. An occasional spree when some program of rare value is scheduled later is part of that "spice" even little children are entitled to. But such an event should be labeled special so the children won't expect such indulgence to be frequent. Ask yourself why it is that playing records has never been listed as a "menace" to children. Isn't it because they are usually chosen with care, and then the playing of them is sandwiched in with other activities? A dangerously introspective child, like the crippled sister in "The Glass Menagerie," might sit and play records all day, but most children take them as an adjunct to radio, reading, movies or working at a hobby. If all the current amusements were used in the sensible way most families listen to records there wouldn't be any television or radio or movie problem!

This surfeit of passive entertainment in our children's lives could be kept to manageable proportions if parents would see to it that each week their children have a well-rounded program—you can't always provide a balanced daily fare but the week should add up to the right proportions. Begin by planning for the programs in each field that shouldn't be missed.

For example, the week that "Treasure Island" comes to your local movie, that is a must-see for children 10 years old and up, including father and mother. Television shows that week should include baseball games, favorite children's programs and one of the better Westerns. Radio may provide a children's series dramatizing stories from history or the Bible. For reading, something sentimental for girls and a scientific wonder book for boys.

Then the week "Destination Moon" hits your theater the family should declare a holiday and go. For reading, perhaps Davy Crockett tales—the adventure of discovering our country after being on the moon at the movies.
